

Vivaldi, The Violin of The Four Seasons Fantasy Musical Tale

© ICPA Arequipa Perú

Based on a story by Clara CERNAT

Music by Thierry HUILLET & Antonio VIVALDI

Clara CERNAT, international violinist and French-speaking author, offers us a fairy tale to mark the 300th anniversary of Vivaldi's Four Seasons. Putting down her bow, she takes up her pen to take us on a journey through the history of Venice, a city steeped in art, love, and beauty.

Set to music by prolific composer Thierry HUILLET, this tale immerses the audience in a nocturnal, mysterious, poetic Venice.

Vivaldi's famous themes intertwine with new melodies, embodying the Venetian dream. The music cries, dreams, and dances along with the narrative.

“The veil of a clear night tenderly envelops the houses huddled together in the narrow, timeless alleyway.

The nearby lagoon rests with a steady, peaceful breath, gently rocking its waters, far from the tumult of the open sea.

In its breath, one can hear the confidences of dozens of violins mixing muted tremolos and legatos at the tip of their light bows.

Through the beautifully crafted wrought-iron gate, passersby catch a glimpse of a secret garden, full of charm.

In the center of this green haven, not far from the ancient stone well, a mysterious, medium-sized rose bush listens silently to an underground voice that makes its roots vibrate.

Is it music, a lament, words?”

Tonight is Vivaldi's birthday. A secret chord vibrates, setting in motion alchemical magic: the bond between the artist and his beloved instrument, which pierces the layers of time.

The beautiful rose bush, connected to a distant star, will grant a wish buried for two and a half centuries, evoking a beautiful Venetian legend in the process.
